

Monday 30th January 2023

Pobble 3B5: To describe in detail.

Hidden away from sunlight, in an icy, frozen wasteland, two lonely, abandoned houses were built almost one thousand <sup>hundred</sup> years ago. One was placed on top of a steep cliff which was layered with thick sheets of ice, while the other was buried in snow on a small measly island in the distance. Sharp shards of shattered glaciers were sticking out of the deep, dark ocean, almost as if they were saying, "Stay away, or else!" The murky water lashed against the rock face, taking any loose stones that plunged into the wild, stormy ocean back onto the seabed. The clouds were as black as midnight, and would only light up when lightning struck the rocks, ice. A frosty, bitter wind blew the bare trees, as they swayed from side to side.

nazing!
G.T.

→ -ing opener / subordinate clause at the start of a new sentence (using joined writing). miniature raging
Thrashing ~~ag~~ at the base of the ~~barrer~~ island, the waves almost ripped a ~~tree~~ flimsy tree off the island by its roots.

STAR WRITER

Presented to:

Nina for impressive use of descriptive features.

Signed: SFlatman Date: 6.2.23